

NOBODY'S FREE UNTIL EVERYBODY'S FREE!

FEMINIST POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY SPEAKER SERIES 2021/22

Quill Kukla, Georgetown University
“Spatial Agency, Territory, and the Right to the City”
Mon Oct. 18, 2021
Überseering 35, Hörsaal B
14.00–16.00

Alexis Shotwell, Carleton University
“Solidarity Against Straightness”
Mon Nov. 22, 2021, on Zoom
18.15–20.00

Tanu Biswas, University of Stavanger
“Childist Discomfort with Pedagogy: Aren't we schooling towards intergenerational injustice?”
Tues Dec. 7, 2021, on Zoom
18.15–20.00

Lisa Guenther, Queen's University
“Abolish the World As We Know It: Notes for a Praxis of Phenomenology Beyond Critique”
Mon Jan. 24, 2022, on Zoom
18.15–20.00

Andrea J. Pitts, University of North Carolina, Charlotte
“U.S. Latina/x Abolitionist Feminism: Nuevos y viejos caminos/New and Old Pathways”
Mon Feb. 7, 2022, on Zoom
18.15–20.00

Serena Parekh, Northeastern University
Book Talk: No Refuge: Ethics and the Global Refugee Crisis
commentary by Christine Straehle, Universität Hamburg
Mon Feb. 21, 2022, on Zoom
16.15–19.00

A speaker series on feminist approaches to urgent contemporary political questions. This series takes its title from the words of US civil rights activist Fannie Lou Hamer—words that demand accountability from any society calling itself a liberal democracy.

To take those words seriously, a society must not only stamp out prejudice and discrimination, but must rethink basic institutions of education, policing, criminal justice, and national borders, as well as social and cultural norms of family and community life. This speaker series brings together feminist political philosophers who respond to this challenge and map paths to a freer and more livable society.

Organizer: Dr. Caleb Ward, Wissenschaftlicher Mitarbeiter
caleb.ward@uni-hamburg.de

Register here to receive news and Zoom links for the talks

(All talks Central European Time)
www.limesurvey.uni-hamburg.de/index.php/133536

planned in collaboration with SWIP-Hamburg

supported by Fachbereich Philosophie and Gleichstellungsbüro der Fakultät für Geisteswissenschaften